

Good morning Year 12

Mrs Keenan, Miss McGahan and myself hope you are all keeping well and staying at home! This is just a quick mid-week check-in to make sure you are all doing ok.

Some of your subject teachers have added Mrs Keenan and I to your other classrooms. It's great to see the work you have been doing so far this week. My favourite posts this week have included Mrs Nelson's invitation for the GCSE Drama group to join an 'advanced classroom' for those who wish to do drama for A Level; it's great to see that some of you have taken this opportunity. Well done! Remember, when we return to school, you will be starting your A-Level studies, so it's really important to complete some work now in preparation.

Another great post was a comment from Mr O'Flaherty to his GCSE Music class. He wrote:

“I know this is extremely disheartening for you all. You have all worked exceptionally hard...Do not let the work you have all done be in vain: keep practising your instruments and writing songs...get familiar with all the keywords. Not for an exam: for your own development! You are all more than just GCSE music students: you are all musicians too!”

I loved this because it was a reminder that school and education are so much more than just exams, ladies. Over the next few months, you'll still continue to grow and develop into fantastic young adults with dreams and ambitions. Your teachers are always here to help you with this, even from afar. Keep learning!

KEEP ON LEARNING.

Mrs Creaney (Miss Devlin) has also sent me the code for the Travel and Tourism classroom: bteo6k3.

Next Monday, I'm going to share with you an example of a completed Amazing Brains weekly planner. It will help you establish a routine if this is something you are struggling with this week. Don't worry if you are, this is new to all of us and we're still getting used to it. Things will start to settle soon.

Keep in touch and take care of yourselves.

Mrs Henry (Miss Kelly)
